

THE DAILY TELEGRAM

The Leading Newspaper of Central West Virginia.

Published Every Week-day Evening and Sunday Morning by CLARKSBURG TELEGRAM COMPANY, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Entered at the postoffice at Clarksburg, W. Va., as second class mail matter.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS.

TELEPHONES: Editorial Rooms, Business Office, Consolidated 157; Classified 157-1; Bell 360; Bell 253.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: By Carrier.

Daily, per week ..... 10c
Daily, per year in advance ..... $5.00
Sunday, per week ..... 5c
Daily and Sunday, per week ..... 25c
Daily and Sunday, per year in advance ..... $1.50

By Mail, in advance.

Daily, per month ..... 35c
Daily, per year ..... $3.50
Sunday, per year ..... $2.50
Daily and Sunday, per year ..... $6.50

CHANGE OF ADDRESS: When changing address give old as well as new address.

All communications must be signed, or they will receive no attention whatever.

(Election, Tuesday, November 7, 1916.)

Republican National Ticket

For President
CHARLES EVANS HUGHES, of New York
Vice President
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, of Indiana.

United States Senator
HOWARD SUTHERLAND, of Randolph.
Congress—Third District
STUART F. REED, of Harrison.

Republican State Ticket

Governor
IRA E. ROBINSON, of Taylor.
Secretary of State
HOUSTON G. YOUNG, of Harrison.

Superintendent of Schools
MORRIS P. SHAWKEY, of Kanawha.
Auditor
JOHN S. DART, of Jackson.

Treasurer
WILLIAM S. JOHNSON, of Fayette.
Attorney General
E. T. ENGLAND, of Logan.

Commissioner of Agriculture
JAMES H. STEWART, of Putnam.
Judges of Supreme Court—
W. N. MILLER, of West
HAROLD A. RITZ, of Mercer.

State Senator—Twelfth District
WALLACE R. GRIBBLE, of Doddridge.

Republican County Ticket

Sheriff
LLOYD D. GRIFFIN, of Clarksburg.
Judge Criminal Court
CHARLES A. SUTTON, of Bridgeport.

Prosecuting Attorney
WILL E. MORRIS, of Clarksburg.
County Commissioner
DORSEY W. CORK, of Mt. Clara.

Assessor
IRA L. SWIGER, of Clarksburg.
Surveyor
CUTHBERT A. OSBORN, of Clarksburg.

House of Delegates
ROSSI M. FISHER, of Wilson.
S. R. HARRISON, JR., of Clarksburg.
JOHN MOORE, of Bridgeport.
GEORGE W. STURM, of West Milford.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1916.

An Evening Echo.

Our preparation must be industrial and economic as well as military. Our severest tests will come after the war is over. We must make a fair and wise readjustment of the tariff, in accordance with sound protective principle, to insure our economic independence and to maintain American standards of living.—CHARLES E. HUGHES.

No Democratically controlled state in the union has as low a tax rate, a more equitable and less burdensome system, than West Virginia has had under Republican administrations for the last twenty years.

There are few counties in which rousing Republican clubs have not been organized, and got right down to the business of whooping up the campaign. That doesn't look like old General Apaty was on the job, so far as the Republican party of West Virginia is concerned.

It was bad enough when President Wilson gave away the Panama canal to England, but when he surrenders the government in an effort to secure enough votes to gain his re-election, it is time for an army of real old-fashioned patriots like our forefathers to appear on the scene and put a stop to such highland treason and demagoguery.

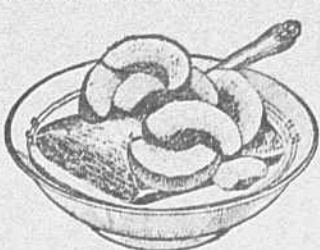

It comes with ill grace from John Cornwell to charge his distinguished opponent, Judge Robinson, with failing to keep an alleged agreement entered into with politicians who opposed him in the primary. The charge is false, and of course, unprovable. But there is no flaw in the evidence to convict Cornwell of bearing John T. McGraw in 1911, and following up that betrayal with a cruel political persecution of his party Godfather.

In 1910 the Democratic party said that the protective tariff was the cause of the high cost of living and it promised if it won that it would reduce the high cost of living by abolishing the cause. It won all right, and it did away with protection, but it didn't do away with the high cost of living. It is thirty-five per cent higher now than it was in 1914, according to figures just issued by Secretary Redfield of the Wilson cabinet.

Their Labor Records. Wilson's labor record, like his record on nine out of ten public questions, lines up first on one side and then on the other. But that cannot be said of John Cornwell's labor record. It has been consistently opposed

Off to the Front!

Put yourself in top-notch condition by eating Shredded Wheat Biscuit, a food that supplies the greatest amount of body-building material with the least tax upon the digestion. You cannot get to "the front" in any business with a poorly nourished body. Delicious for breakfast with sliced peaches and cream.

Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

to organized labor from the time he was in the state senate, when he dodged the fellow servant bill, until the time a year ago when he wrote a series of articles attacking the proposed full crew law in particular, and the demands of organized railroad labor in general.

Judge Robinson's official record shows the truth of the claim made for him by his friends, and by the leaders of organized labor in West Virginia—he is the laboring man's friend and his proved protector and benefactor.

Come Home to Roost.

When I began this campaign I announced that personalities would not be indulged in. I proposed to make no personal attacks on Judge Robinson, whom I had known for a long time and with whom my relations had always been cordial.—Cornwell, in speech at Hinton.

"This true that Mr. Cornwell made such an announcement. Then, in his very first series of speeches he cut loose with personalities innumerable and misstatements galore. They are coming home to roost now, hence the complaint. After all, in promptly breaking the pledge he made to himself and the public, he was merely following the Democratic fashion which was established on the wreck and ruin of the poor old Baltimore platform.

Economy vs. Craft.

The state paid $3,150.58 for gas for the buildings at the Fairmont state normal school, West Liberty state normal school and Marshall College at Huntington last year.

Marion county paid $3,622.91 for gas for the court house and jail last year. The government of Marion county is a model of Democratic efficiency and competence. It has the system which the Democratic machine expects to fasten on the state at large by the election of its man, John J. Cornwell.

Will a majority of the voters of West Virginia stand for it? This is the vital question which every responsible voter must make answer to himself by November 7.

New Jersey Sure.

A careful study of not only Republican claims, but of the Democratic arguments based on the New Jersey primaries, leaves no ground whatever for putting that state in the doubtful column. Every indication points to its giving a large majority for Hughes.

Jersey is normally a Republican state. It has great industries whose men believe in protection, regarding it as the only safeguard of a satisfactory standard of wages and living for them. In 1910 there was a strong Democratic swing all over the country and it resulted in the election as governor of Woodrow Wilson, then an unknown quantity, reputed to be a man of ideal and fine character, and adding the quality of novelty to the general Democratic trend.

In 1912, however, as candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson carried the state only by a plurality, the combined Republican and Progressive vote exceeding his by 55,556. In 1914, the Republicans swept the state in the election of a legislature and elected eight representatives to Congress out of twelve; and again, in 1915, they elected a large majority of the legislature.

This year the people know Woodrow Wilson. The Jersey voters bitterly resent his arbitrary and dictatorial attitude, and the Jersey Democrats have repudiated the president by renominating, by a large majority, Senator Martine, against Mr. Wilson's emphatic protest and against all the influence their own machine could exert. "Jim" Martine, who is far less fit to be senator than is the defeated Westcott, who has been a bad joke in the Senate, publicly announced that he would rather "go back to the farm" than go to the White House every day for his "orders," and the Democrats of Jersey endorsed his position.

Westcott's defeat is the first unmistakable manifestation of that resentment which Democrats generally feel toward Mr. Wilson and his two secretary detested advisors, Mead and Burleson.

Not Embarrassed.

"Nobody can embarrass me by talking about Americanism," said Mr. Hughes at Green Bay, Wis. "I am not for this one or that one, I am for the United States first, last and all the time, without regard to another consideration."

This declaration was made in a state where the proportion of foreign-born citizens is regarded as large, where there has been thought to be a harsh feeling toward those who do not tincture their patriotism with reservations, and where some timid folk have believed it imprudent to preach what Hughes has always called an "unadulterated Americanism."

The response of Wisconsin to Hughes' words has confounded the pussy-footers, however; and the episode, coupled with that earlier incident in Tennessee, has demonstrated not only that Hughes cannot be embarrassed by the talk about Americanism, but that he cannot be embarrassed by the talk about any issue that may arise in the campaign.

Hughes' freedom from embarrassment is due to his clear convictions and to his undeniable courage in stating them. What he has to say may not meet the opinions of his audience. It did not at Memphis. But his manliness in standing his ground, his readiness to give the reason for the faith that is in him, his logic in presenting his case, compel the attention of thoughtful citizens and win men to his way of thinking.

A man of smaller mental mould than he, a man who was out to win only, might have hesitated to deal with the railroad legislation as Hughes has dealt with it. The cowardly reasoning that led Wilson to surrender to the brotherhoods and that led him to urge surrender upon the Democratic Congress which he controlled never penetrated Hughes' indomitable mind. That he wishes the votes of his fellow citizens is undeniable—but that he would truckle to get them or that he would surrender a great principle of legislation or of administration to get them is unthinkable. He is not embarrassed because he is honest.

THE DAILY NOVELET

THE DAWN.

"I wish I were a bird," she sang. The men all ran but one. He muttered, with a sportsman's pang: "I wish I had my gun!"

It was the last scene of the last act of Blisbon's tragedy. "The Stoic Wrist Watch," the scene in which Chauncey Frother, at his very best, always brought down the house. The scene in which the heroine, although she had promised to meet him on the beach at daybreak, fails to show up, and Chauncey blows out his brains.

"The dawn!" cried Chauncey. But the stage remained steeped in murky darkness. "The dawn!" cried Chauncey somewhat louder.

A faint hammering sounded from behind the scenes, but that was all. "The dawn! The dawn!" shouted Chauncey in a frenzy.

More hammering and sounds as if stage hands oathing round oaths, but still no sign of daylight on yon horizon. "Ah!" cried Chauncey. "I am forgetting! Today is the day of the big sell-off! The wall will be no dawn today! The wench has deceived me with a base trick!"

And then he blew out his brains with an effective bang, and brought down the house as never before as the curtain descended on the still gloomy stage.

LIGHT OCCUPATION.

Polishing shoes with sunshine.

ator Martine, against Mr. Wilson's emphatic protest and against all the influence their own machine could exert. "Jim" Martine, who is far less fit to be senator than is the defeated Westcott, who has been a bad joke in the Senate, publicly announced that he would rather "go back to the farm" than go to the White House every day for his "orders," and the Democrats of Jersey endorsed his position.

Westcott's defeat is the first unmistakable manifestation of that resentment which Democrats generally feel toward Mr. Wilson and his two secretary detested advisors, Mead and Burleson.

"Nobody can embarrass me by talking about Americanism," said Mr. Hughes at Green Bay, Wis. "I am not for this one or that one, I am for the United States first, last and all the time, without regard to another consideration."

This declaration was made in a state where the proportion of foreign-born citizens is regarded as large, where there has been thought to be a harsh feeling toward those who do not tincture their patriotism with reservations, and where some timid folk have believed it imprudent to preach what Hughes has always called an "unadulterated Americanism."

The response of Wisconsin to Hughes' words has confounded the pussy-footers, however; and the episode, coupled with that earlier incident in Tennessee, has demonstrated not only that Hughes cannot be embarrassed by the talk about Americanism, but that he cannot be embarrassed by the talk about any issue that may arise in the campaign.

Hughes' freedom from embarrassment is due to his clear convictions and to his undeniable courage in stating them. What he has to say may not meet the opinions of his audience. It did not at Memphis. But his manliness in standing his ground, his readiness to give the reason for the faith that is in him, his logic in presenting his case, compel the attention of thoughtful citizens and win men to his way of thinking.

A man of smaller mental mould than he, a man who was out to win only, might have hesitated to deal with the railroad legislation as Hughes has dealt with it. The cowardly reasoning that led Wilson to surrender to the brotherhoods and that led him to urge surrender upon the Democratic Congress which he controlled never penetrated Hughes' indomitable mind. That he wishes the votes of his fellow citizens is undeniable—but that he would truckle to get them or that he would surrender a great principle of legislation or of administration to get them is unthinkable. He is not embarrassed because he is honest.

THE DAILY NOVELET

THE DAWN.

"I wish I were a bird," she sang. The men all ran but one. He muttered, with a sportsman's pang: "I wish I had my gun!"

It was the last scene of the last act of Blisbon's tragedy. "The Stoic Wrist Watch," the scene in which Chauncey Frother, at his very best, always brought down the house. The scene in which the heroine, although she had promised to meet him on the beach at daybreak, fails to show up, and Chauncey blows out his brains.

"The dawn!" cried Chauncey. But the stage remained steeped in murky darkness. "The dawn!" cried Chauncey somewhat louder.

A faint hammering sounded from behind the scenes, but that was all. "The dawn! The dawn!" shouted Chauncey in a frenzy.

More hammering and sounds as if stage hands oathing round oaths, but still no sign of daylight on yon horizon. "Ah!" cried Chauncey. "I am forgetting! Today is the day of the big sell-off! The wall will be no dawn today! The wench has deceived me with a base trick!"

And then he blew out his brains with an effective bang, and brought down the house as never before as the curtain descended on the still gloomy stage.

LIGHT OCCUPATION.

Polishing shoes with sunshine.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quickly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Advertisement.

West Virginia Briefs

FOLLANSBEE: Miss Greta Daris Cale and Fred D. Armstrong, socially prominent young folk, treated their friends to a novel surprise in the midst of festivities to a picnic which they had invited their friends, they marched before the Rev. L. Z. Robinson and were married before the amazed guests realized what was happening.

CHARLESTON: For the first time in the history of the chestnut crop in West Virginia and Virginia nuts have appeared in the market before frost.

MARTINSBURG: The Rev. R. B. Mitchell has resigned as pastor of the Central Church of Christ here in order to become pastor of the First Church of Christ at Jennings, La.

WHEELING: With 200 delegates attending the national convention of the Daughters of America opened today in the Hotel Windsor here. Mrs. Elizabeth P. Howe, of New York City, the national chancellor, is presiding. Mayor Harvey L. Kirk welcomed the delegates to the city.

MORGANTOWN: Owing to the large enrollment this year at the state university here, its cadet corps this year will consist of eight companies besides the band. The total strength will be about 550 with an average of about seventy officers and men to a company. Last year there were only six companies.

CHARLESTON: Charleston voters have ratified the issuance of $150,000 bonds for the purpose of constructing a high school building in West Charleston. The vote was light but decisive, the total being 397 for and nine against the issue.

MARTINSBURG: Announcement is made of the marriage of Vernon B. Garton, news editor of the Martinsburg Evening Journal, and Miss Mary R. Martin, of Nain, Va.

GRAFTON: Standco Molice, a coal miner, was crushed to death between a coal car and the wall of the Rosemont Coal Company's mine at Rosemont.

CHARLESTON: Officials of the state house have been informed of a number of changes in officials of Mingo county and the city of Williamson, the county seat of that county. O. H. Boonen, who resigned as member of the city commission, has been made president of the county court. He is succeeded on the commission by C. R. Shannon, who resigned from the court to accept the appointment. T. J. Reynolds, of Devon, has been appointed a member of the commission to succeed A. H. Moore, who resigned because of leaving the county. Other changes in the official roster of both city and county are proposed.

WHEELING: Reports have been made to the workmen's compensation department during the last week of 486 accidents in industrial plants of West Virginia of which the operators are subscribers to the compensatory fund. There were eleven fatalities, while nearly all the important industries of the state have been fewer than those during the summer months.

WHEELING: George B. Fletcher, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, will reach Wheeling shortly to start an investigation of stogie and cigar manufacturing here and in Pittsburgh. The investigation results from a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Porter, of Pittsburgh, contemplating reduction of federal tax on cheaper grades and increase on higher grades.

STRAIGHT GOODS.
A ukulele is a jitney guitar.

GOES TO PANHANDLE.

Judge Ira E. Robinson, of Grafton, Republican nominee for governor, spent Sunday night in the city, coming in from Point Pleasant, where he attended a big barbecue and political rally Saturday afternoon. The judge left early Monday morning for the eastern panhandle, where he will spend the week on the stump.

HUGH DORSEY TO BE GEORGIA'S GOVERNOR

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey has been named by Georgia Democrats for governor and will be elected in November. He won the nomination on the strength of the fact that he had successfully prosecuted Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

Hugh M. Dorsey.

The Watts-Lambersd Company

ONE HUNDRED HATS
JUST RECEIVED—PRICE } $5.00

There's Lively Interest in Rugs, Curtains and Draperies

There is so much cheerful choosing, so many beautiful new Rugs, Curtains and Draperies, Cretones, Handsome Silks and Nets, all are so very new, so many pleased comments on the price of our Rugs, Curtains and Draperies and Drapery fabrics. Yes it is a fact—because we are told daily that we not only have large assortments to select from but that our prices are lower than elsewhere. New things continue to arrive almost daily and they are scarcely free from their wrappings before they leave us. Some extraordinary values in new Rugs.

THEIR FAVORITE SENATOR.
Fraternal man's Lodge.

CITY WATER TODAY.

Following is today's test for fever and other germs as made by the Water Board's chemist and bacteriologist at the filtration plant. Also rainfall for twentyfour hours ending at 10 o'clock today:

ANALYSIS.
Number of bacteria in 1.0 c. c. Bacillus coli present in
1.0 c. c. 1.0 c. c. 10. c. c.
River water ..... 300 x x x
City water ..... 3 0 0

EXPLANATION.
C. C.—Cubic centimeter, (about a thimbleful.) Bacillus coli—
Intestinal germ. X—Present. O—Absent. Rainfall

The Advertising of a Store is a "Continued Story" Which the Reader May Begin to Read at Any Time!

In every good store each new day brings its quota of events. On some days these events crowd each other in their rapid sequence.

The arrival of new stocks—the first showing of novel fashions or fabrics or products—the arranging of special sales—the decision to close out broken lines of goods at actual sacrifices—these are but the usual routine of "events" in a store.

But they form the substance of the daily chapters of store news, and they carry their special significance to the woman who watches the store "ads" in the Telegram for favorable buying opportunities.

To this prudent woman, who has placed the buying of home supplies on a business basis, the day-by-day "ads" of the stores are CHAPTERS OF THE SERIAL STORY OF THAT STORE, a story of increasing interest and concern to her. She does not miss any of the chapters. But she is disappointed if any of them are dull, or lack in appeal to her self-interest.

In a sense, of course, each chapter of this serial story of a store is "complete in itself." The casual reader of the "ads" may read a single chapter with interest and profit. But the reading should leave a desire for the next chapter—and if the merchant is always keyed up to appreciate his opportunities this will be the result.

Every day's installment of this serial story of a store should have a strong interest for every reader. If this newspaper was printing a serial story of fiction, in daily installments, and so arranged it that on some days the story "dragged"—contained nothing of cumulative interest—the reader would lose interest in that story. The same truth applies to day-by-day advertising.

Judge Ira E. Robinson, of Grafton, Republican nominee for governor, spent Sunday night in the city, coming in from Point Pleasant, where he attended a big barbecue and political rally Saturday afternoon. The judge left early Monday morning for the eastern panhandle, where he will spend the week on the stump.

WHEELING: Reports have been made to the workmen's compensation department during the last week of 486 accidents in industrial plants of West Virginia of which the operators are subscribers to the compensatory fund. There were eleven fatalities, while nearly all the important industries of the state have been fewer than those during the summer months.

WHEELING: George B. Fletcher, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, will reach Wheeling shortly to start an investigation of stogie and cigar manufacturing here and in Pittsburgh. The investigation results from a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Porter, of Pittsburgh, contemplating reduction of federal tax on cheaper grades and increase on higher grades.

STRAIGHT GOODS.
A ukulele is a jitney guitar.

GOES TO PANHANDLE.

Judge Ira E. Robinson, of Grafton, Republican nominee for governor, spent Sunday night in the city, coming in from Point Pleasant, where he attended a big barbecue and political rally Saturday afternoon. The judge left early Monday morning for the eastern panhandle, where he will spend the week on the stump.

WHEELING: Reports have been made to the workmen's compensation department during the last week of 486 accidents in industrial plants of West Virginia of which the operators are subscribers to the compensatory fund. There were eleven fatalities, while nearly all the important industries of the state have been fewer than those during the summer months.

WHEELING: George B. Fletcher, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, will reach Wheeling shortly to start an investigation of stogie and cigar manufacturing here and in Pittsburgh. The investigation results from a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Porter, of Pittsburgh, contemplating reduction of federal tax on cheaper grades and increase on higher grades.

STRAIGHT GOODS.
A ukulele is a jitney guitar.

GOES TO PANHANDLE.

Judge Ira E. Robinson, of Grafton, Republican nominee for governor, spent Sunday night in the city, coming in from Point Pleasant, where he attended a big barbecue and political rally Saturday afternoon. The judge left early Monday morning for the eastern panhandle, where he will spend the week on the stump.

Special Sale of $10 New Plaid Skirts, $6.75

Made of handsome quality English Plaid Serge. No two Skirts of the exact same plaid or colors. Beautiful style, with V-shaped patch pockets. The manufacturers having purchased the material many months before the advance in material, enables us to offer these $10.00 Skirts at the special price of $6.75.

Women's Fashionable
Jersey Sport Coats,
$14.75

We have just received a shipment of Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jersey Sport Coats in the new length—made of a new Jersey Cloth. Colors are Burgundy, Gold and Copenhagen Blue.

Jer